dedication

Between the broad horizons of an academic atmosphere — huge ideas, wide ranging speculations, life affecting decisions — the small necessities of merely living can too easily be made to seem insignificant. Yet, the student's reaction to petty detail, the manner in which she meets the minutiae of life determine her overall development of spirit. Thus the true measure of a student can only be known in the terms of her day to day existence.

If the long trek from Freshman to Senior year is a movement towards maturity for us, this is due in great part to Mother Blank. The gathering of four hundred disparate, often highly opinionated girls under one roof could be a descent into the chaos of squabbling or the mindless order of regimentation. Because of Mother Blank, dormitory life is neither. Rather it becomes one valuable facet of the total education which Manhattanville seeks to impart.

No problem has ever been too petty for Mother Blank's consideration, no request too trivial for careful weighing. Hers is not adherence to the letter of the law. Instead she provides a framework in which every girl is free to develop according to her individual bent, while impressing on her the fact that discipline and sacrifice are the foundations of community living.

And it is precisely this discipline, gently but thoroughly taught, for which we are most grateful. Gradually we begin to divine something of the wisdom which leads us kindly yet firmly towards a knowledge of what it is to live with others, of how to give and receive in the exigencies of ordinary life, of how to construct and maintain a Christian society in a Christian spirit. And if, when we leave the walls of Founders and the hills of Purchase, we are able to make a meaningful contribution to the communities in which we shall dwell, it is because of that wisdom.

All of us living in Founders, all of us who will someday take up residence there, all of us everywhere who have known her, salute the face Mother Blank has turned towards us. It is the face of concern, of good humor, of wry firmness when firmness has been necessary. For all the little presents you have given us, for all the thoughtfulness in small circumstances, which when added together total an overwhelming gift of love, we thank you Mother Blank, and in gratitude dedicate this yearbook to you.

introduction

Only an instant — time enough to give purpose and meaning to being;
The light of a moment — to awaken promise,
clear paths, discover prospects.

Belonging to present, unique sovereign nows:
the matter, the shapers of being;
Taking has been, pointing to shall be,
supreme because they are is.

When shall is achieved, when now becomes then,
the singular moment endures;
Only changing its place to keep up with time,
now guiding new futures by recent pasts.

The truth of being is measured by time
but breaks the limits imposed;
For as is means to be, so does was and shall;
and old means the same as young.

MISS STOLOFF, HEAD OF ART DEPARTMENT

Advice? Hmmm. You are all so different! Well, if you were all rolled into one infant princess and I were one of the good fairies invited to the christening, I would bestow the gift of knowing how to travel without leaving home. You would be curious, keen, ready to catch and to reciprocate. You would remain flexible and capable of wonder. You would act on the bright, worthy thought When it occurs, not tomorrow, which could be never. You would leave the tour from time to time, explore the narrow side streets, make your own discoveries. Other fairies would tend to your destination, your baggage, — if there were fairies and you were an infant princess.

DR. O'HARA, HEAD OF PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

Despite the complexity of its methods, modern psychology retains, as one of its objectives the fuller understanding of the behavior of people. This is its justification for inclusion in a humanistic curriculum. The girl who majors in psychology may, after further study, pursue a career as an experimentalist or a clinician. It is my hope that, even without such study, she will leave Manhattanville with a better understanding and appreciation of herself and other people.

John G. O'Hara

DR. WOLSKY, HEAD OF BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT

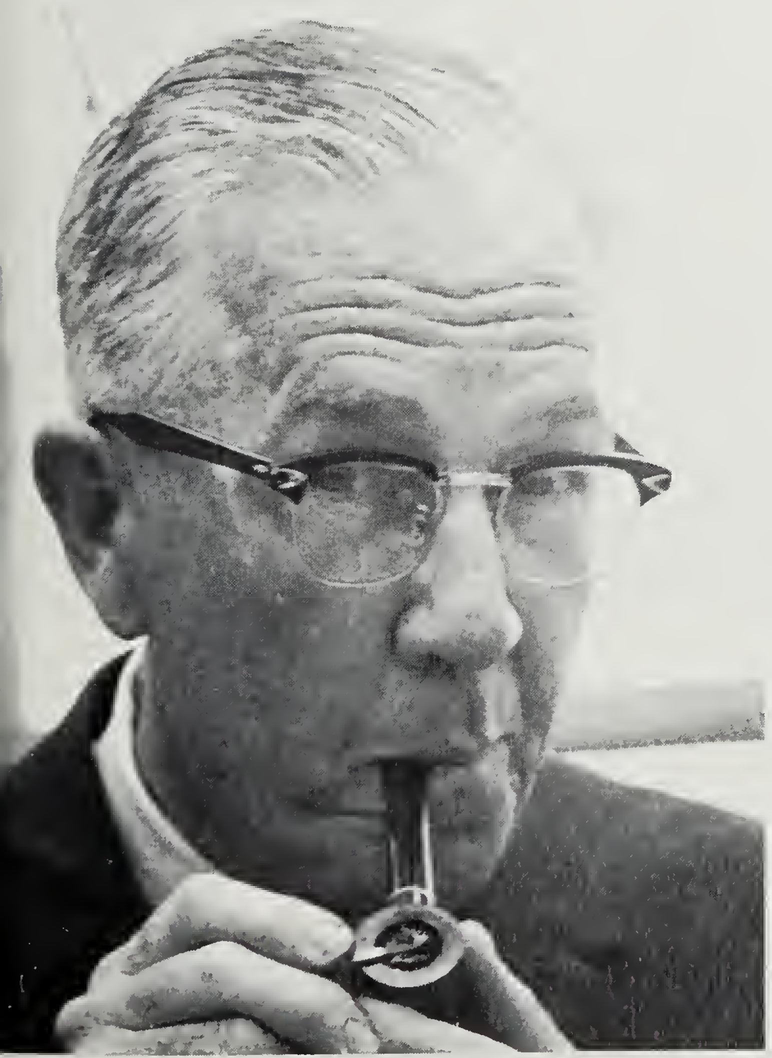
„Really now you ask me" said Alice very much confused „I don't think..." "Then you shouldn't talk" said the Hatter. (This is a sort of gentle advice)

DR. HAGGERTY, HEAD OF CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

I shall never forget the extremely animated and assured Sophomore transfer who came to me one Fall for advice. She was determined to become a medical, legal, missionary. I complemented her profusely not only upon the choice but also upon the abundance of her expected careers; any one of which would please most of her uncertain classmates. I advised her that the study of chemistry was most surely basic to all of these careers. Upon her return in the Spring from a Junior Prom, up north-way she proudly wore a Frat. pin and was married the following Summer. What a spinning of careers! Sic transit aut advenit gloria hominis; sed chemica semper est utilissima.

MR. MORRISSEY, HEAD OF PHYSICS DEPARTMENT



In my purview the essential characteristics of Manhattanville students do not vary greatly. In character, motivation, personality, intellectual capacity and analytical power the students of today are about on a par with their Manhattanville mothers.
